Emerging Infections Network - Research for Preventing, Detecting, and Managing Travelers who Acquire Infectious Diseases Abroad

United States Department of Health and Human Services \(HHS\)
Centers for Disease Control and Prevention \(CDC\)
National Center for Emerging and Zoonotic Infectious Diseases \(NCEZID\)

The purpose of this notice of funding opportunity (NOFO) is to support research activities that will assist with the prevention, detection, and management of international travelers who become ill during or after travel. The project must have a focus on travel and tropical medicine providers with the capability to participate in both research and surveillance to determine the disease prevention strategies, burden, severity, optimal diagnostics, treatment interventions, and outcomes of infectious diseases acquired by travelers while abroad. This research will bridge the gap between clinical medicine and public health by assisting with improving patient care, better understanding the natural history of disease, and implementing optimal diagnostic and treatment strategies, with the ultimate outcome being an advancement in the global health security of the United States.

Funding Amount: $1,500,000

Deadline: December 18, 2020 (letter of intent November 16)

U.S. Embassy Singapore - Annual Program Statement Department of State, U.S. Mission to Singapore

Funding Opportunity Number: PAS-SINGAPORE-FY21-002

U.S. Embassy Singapore is pleased to announce funding opportunities through its public diplomacy grants program. Each year, the U.S. Embassy awards a limited number of grants to support activities and exchanges linking the United States and Singapore with the aim of strengthening the bilateral relationship and people-to-people connections. This notice of funding opportunity is valid for funding through September 30, 2021.

Proposals are accepted on an ongoing basis and will be considered pending the availability of funds. A few times a year, U.S. Embassy Singapore convenes grant panels to make priority funding decisions, and the next submission deadline for priority review is January 31, 2021.

Proposals should be submitted a minimum of two months before the start of the activity for which funding is being sought, but applications can be submitted anytime. The Public Affairs Section may request revisions or additional materials related to the application. Funding of grants is subject to the availability of funds.

Purpose of Small Grants

To support organizations or individuals that engage Singaporeans in activities that strengthen ties between the United States and Singapore or the region. All programs must include an American cultural element, or connection with American experts, organizations, or institutions in fields that will promote increased understanding of U.S. policies, perspectives, or values.

Given the current limitations related to in-person programming in Singapore due to COVID-19 public health guidelines, the U.S. Embassy is particularly interested in funding programs focused on small group, virtual, or hybrid in-person + online engagements, including but not limited to:

- Academic and professional lectures, seminars, and speaker programs;
- Artistic and cultural workshops or performances;
- Professional and academic enrichment or development activities; or
- Other programs that build people-to-people connections between Americans and Singaporeans.

U.S. Embassy Singapore welcomes proposals that utilize digital platforms or other technological innovations that eliminate in-person programs, or support in-person programs that abide by Singapore's current rules regarding events and gatherings. While applicants are invited to submit proposals with in-person components, we encourage applicants to consider digital delivery components in support of engaging broader audiences when appropriate.

Thematic Priorities

- U.S. Embassy Singapore small grants fund programs that:
- Support entrepreneurship, innovation, and increased economic opportunities;
- Address transnational threats including disinformation and other cybercrime;
- Advance awareness of safety and security cooperation between the U.S. and Singapore and its importance to the region;
- Support open, inclusive, and diverse societies;
- Promote the U.S. higher education system; or
- Create understanding about U.S. policies, culture, and shared values.

Deadline: September 30, 2021

Competitive proposals should also include a connection with American expert(s), organization(s), or institution(s) that will promote increased cooperation between the people of the United States and Russia even after the program has ended. Proposals that promote an understanding of American higher education will also be considered under this category.

Proposals can include, but are not limited to, the following themes:

Entrepreneurship and Business:

- Improvement of entrepreneurship and small business skills for Russian youth, women, minorities, and other under-represented groups;
- Promoting free, fair, and open communication, trade, and investment opportunities between the United States and Russia;
- Highlighting the contributions of American companies in Russia;
- Women's economic empowerment.

Rule of Law in Business:

- Responsible business conduct;
- Disability rights in the workplace;
- Strengthening intellectual property protection;
- Fair labor practices;
- Eco-friendly business practices and environmentally sustainable businesses;
- Prevention of the movement of illicit goods, including trafficking in persons and wildlife;
- Legal rights of corporations and individuals in business;
- Corporate social responsibility.

U.S. Higher Education:

- Promotion of the U.S. university system as a study destination for Russians;
- U.S. higher education as a pathway to increased income and prosperity for Russia;
- The U.S. university application process;
- Linking U.S. and Russian universities and students;
- Highlighting the voices and achievements of Russian alumni of U.S. universities.
