

University of Florida International Center

The OFFICE FOR GLOBAL RESEARCH ENGAGEMENT (OGRE) facilitates international research to increase UF's global presence. OGRE supports faculty to advance international research.

In pursuit of international research excellence, our role is to:

- INTRODUCE faculty new to international research to active university networks and experienced mentors.
- CONNECT faculty, students, and staff with those who share research interests and are interested in working in similar countries or regions.
- FOSTER research networks for internationally focused communities of practice.
- EXPAND UF's knowledge and capacity in working in international venues.
- ASSIST faculty, students, and staff in identifying sponsored research opportunities and programs.
- FACILITATE the process of navigating the UF administrative process for conducting international research.
- SUPPORT Fulbright visiting scholars at UF, and UF scholars traveling abroad.

1. Introduction

This past year, the university, our community and the world experienced a disruption that has both underscored the extraordinary interconnectedness of the world in which we live and has also brought most global engagement, as we knew it to a screeching halt. Even as we are reminded on a daily basis that events, policies, and actions in one part of the world have repercussions around the globe, our international collaborations and exchange are now more difficult than ever. At UF, we are fortunate to have access to resources that allow us to advance new ideas, models and frameworks in an environment that values the contributions of our international students and colleagues, and in the perspectives that our study abroad students both share with their hosts and bring back to our community. As we face the challenge of internationalization at American universities, the UF International Center is proud to be a leader in fostering international understanding, and in developing the network of students and scholars in our home and around the world.

This report documents international activity at the University of Florida. The 2019/2020 update presents the global footprint for the Fredric G. Levin College of Law academic year. Similar to past reports, the data summarize a considerable volume of international activity, and continues to be testimony to the university's and the college's commitment to international research, education, and international exchange.

The report documents the college's international partnerships, the investment into faculty development programs, the number of international visitors working and studying at UF, the number of international students, the extent of applications for graduate programs from students worldwide, the college study abroad programs, efforts dedicated to internationalizing the curricula, and a summary of where Law faculty, students and staff are travelling. These activities contribute to a fundamental university goal to prepare our students to navigate the increasingly complex challenges of a globalized world.

in numero

Fredric G. Levin College of Law

- Five international MOUs in three countries.
- Seven International Visiting Scholars.
- 249 international applications from 54 countries.
- 46 international students enrolled in Fall 2019.
- 6 law students studied abroad.
- Faculty, students, and staff made 26 trips to 19 countries.

The University of Florida International Center is honored to serve and support the university community's global engagements. Our programs bridge the international community to the gator community whether it is here on UF's campus or at destinations around the world.

The data represent a snapshot of international activity captured in August 2020. For many categories, the numbers fluctuate; for example, the number of formal agreements with foreign institutions changes daily as new partnerships are introduced and others are expired. For some data, such as for international graduate applications and the number of international students, the report captures Fall semester numbers to avoid double counting and redundancies.

The intent of this report is to showcase and highlight the extent and reach of UF's and the college's international activity in one inclusive report. As a top ranked, public university, Law faculty engage in research and international collaborative activity which is, often, a challenge to document. For this reason, this report cannot be comprehensive of all international activity; however, it provides a benchmark from which we can begin to measure our global reach. Indeed, every indication suggests the Gator Nation extends substantially to the wider global community.

2. International Memoranda of Understanding (MOU)

in numero

Fredric G. Levin College of Law

- Five international MOUs
- Four Cooperative MOUs
- One Reciprocal MOU
- Formal MOUs with institutions in three countries.

The University of Florida connects to the world's best international universities and institutions through formal partnership international Memoranda of Understanding (MOUs). These agreements facilitate research among faculty; enable faculty and student exchanges; protect intellectual property; and serve as a basis for ensuring ethical best practice. The relationships that may flourish as a result of these agreements is an important aspect of our internationalization efforts.

The MOU database is dynamic. On a regular basis, the International Center enters into new agreements, updates existing partnerships, and terminates those that are expired or no longer relevant. The data tabulated in this report represents the UF Agreements for the 2019/2020 academic year.

The International Center manages 389 international MOUs. The majority fall under two broad categories of Agreements – Cooperative and Reciprocal. At UF, most MOUs are Cooperative (73.3%). The Cooperative MOUs or Agreements are as diverse as the needs of our faculty. These collaborative partnerships provide a framework to pursue collaborative activity and do not represent a legal relationship. Often they start as a one-to-one collaboration with a UF partner and over the length of the agreement result in meaningful scholarly partnerships. Almost one quarter of all International MOUs are Reciprocal Agreements, which are a true exchange program MOUs where students from each institution spend time at the host institution as a non-degree, seeking student. There are International MOUs to cover combined and dual degree programs, transfer programs from other institutions, or special agreements among universities to accommodate unique circumstances for student exchanges which are all listed under the "Other" category.

Of all UF International MOUs, five are affiliated with the Fredric. G. Levin College of Law. Of the five, four are Cooperative MOUs facilitating collaborative activity including visits and joint research and one is a Reciprocal MOU supporting student exchanges.

Agreements by College

Of all units at UF, the Institute of Agricultural and Life Sciences (IFAS) has the greatest number of active international MOUs. IFAS has the most Cooperative Agreements of all units. Of all Reciprocal Agreements, the Warrington College of Business has established the greatest number of international MOUs (Table 2-1).

The geographic diversity is generally a reflection of the size of the unit. IFAS has the largest global footprint with 100 active international MOUs in 41 countries (Table 2-2). International MOUs for the Levin College represent activity in three countries. Of the four Collaborative MOUs, three are in China and one is in Colombia. The Reciprocal MOU is with an institution in the Netherlands.

3. UF's Global Research Footprint

Institutional Review Boards (IRB): An Indicator of Global Research Capacity

Documenting the international research conducted by faculty, staff and student at UF is monumental. There is no consistency in labeling research as international unless it physically conducted outside of the US. One indicator of our research footprint can be the applications to UF's Institutional Review Boards (IRB) oversight of human subjects research.

in numero Fredric G. Levin College of Law <ul style="list-style-type: none">• The College does not have any active or under review IRB studies.

The IRB is charged with protecting the rights and welfare of participants in clinical trials and other human subjects research studies. UF IRB offices reviews and approves all research involving human subjects to ensure the welfare and rights of research participants are protected as mandated by federal and state laws, local policies, and ethical principles. As such, UF faculty, staff, and students must provide the IRB with a detailed plan of how their research will ensure the safety and welfare of any people who participate in their research project. When the research is conducted outside of the U.S., faculty, staff, and students are required to submit their research protocol that is compliant with the regulations in the U.S. and in the country where the research will take place.

The database that stores the applications for IRB approvals can serve as one indicator of the extent of international research at UF. It is not a comprehensive list and does not include research activities that do not involve people directly in the research methodology. It would not include studies that collect physical data. It would not include collaborative research among colleagues. It would include faculty collecting archival data. And, it would not include exploratory studies that are intended to train students. However, these data can partially highlight the scope of UF's global reach. Due to the nature of research studies engaged by faculty in the College of Law, there are no current IRB studies that are active or under review.

4. International Visiting Scholars

International visiting scholars are vital in supporting the global mission of the University of Florida. International Visitors promote cultural exchange, enrich international research, and connect UF to leading universities in the world. This year, UF's visiting scholars faced the additional challenge from the COVID-19 pandemic, international travel restrictions, and limited access to U.S. Embassies and Consulates for visa processing. Some of our visiting scholars had to return to their home country earlier than planned, while others were not able to travel and have a physical presence on campus. The impact of the pandemic will continue to make a difference in our numbers of visitors throughout our next academic year. The number of scholars at UF for the 2019/2020 academic year were not down substantially UF hosted 1,443 International Scholars, which is 90 less than last year. The effects of travel restrictions and embassy closures will be felt on the number of visiting scholars at UF beginning Fall 2020. The Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences hosted 572 international scholars in the 2019/2020 academic year that is only 20 fewer than reported last year.

in numero
Fredric G. Levin College of Law

- Seven international visiting scholars hosted by the college.
- Five are international research scholars and two are International short-term scholars.
- The college hosts visiting scholars from China, Brazil, Italy, and South Korea.

Visiting scholars fit into one of four categories (Table 4-1):

1. Professor – Teaching is the primary function; more than 50% of their time devoted to teaching. Maximum duration is five years. Usually a small percentage of all visiting scholars come in this role.
2. Research Scholar – Research is the primary function; more than 50% of their time devoted to research. Maximum duration is five years. The college hosts five research scholars.
3. Short Term Scholar – Program allows research and teaching. Maximum duration of six-months. The college hosts two international short-term scholars.
4. Student Intern – International students completing an internship which fulfills an educational objective towards the completion of the student's degree from their home institution. They must engage in a minimum of 32 hours per week of structured internship activities and may take part-time UF courses. The maximum duration of their program is 12 months.

International Visiting Scholars by College

The highest percentage of international visiting scholars are hosted by IFAS attracting almost 40 percent of all scholars. Engineering, Medicine and Liberal Arts and Sciences host between 10 and 15 percent of international scholars.

5. International Student Applications

in numero
Fredric G. Levin College of Law

- The college received 249 international student applications from 54 countries.
- 1.7% of all international student applications are to the college.

International Applications by Type of Program

During the 2019/2020 academic year, 249 international students applied for degrees to the Fredric G. Levin College of Law. Almost equal numbers of Doctoral/JD and master’s degree applications. Almost equal numbers of male and female students applied to the college (Table 5-1).

International Applications by College

The volume of international applications are generally correlated to the size of the college. However, a little more than one third of all international applications are for programs in the Herbert Wertheim College of Engineering. The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, UF’s largest college, has the second highest number of international applications followed by the Warrington College of Business. These three units account for three quarters of all international applications to UF. Of all applications to UF, two percent were to the College of Law (Table 5-2).

The number of international applications by degree type differs by college. Liberal Arts and Sciences receives the most applications for doctoral programs and undergraduate programs than any other unit. Engineering receives the greatest number of applications for master degrees than any other UF unit. Proportionally, by unit, there is more of a spread in the number of applications for the three levels of degrees in the Colleges of Liberal Arts and Sciences and Engineering (Figure 5-2).

International Applications by Citizenship

The college received applications from 54 countries. Approximately one third of the applicants are from China, 11% from South Korea, and 10% from Canada. The remaining half are from 51 countries where the majority of countries represent less than two percent of college applications (Figure 5-2; Table 5-3).

6. International Students

in numero

Fredric G. Levin College of Law

- There are 46 international students during the Fall 2019 semester.
- One percent of all international students enrolled at UF.
- International students in the college (including students registered in OPT) represent 26 countries.
- The majority of international students are from China and Brazil.
- Almost equal numbers of male and female international students (7% did not report gender).
- An additional 13 (22% of all college international students) enrolled in OPT.

Each year, the International Center welcomes and assists students from around the world to help them make a smooth transition to student life at the University of Florida. The data reported here reflect UF's submission to the Open Doors Report to the US Department of State, Bureau of Educational, and Cultural Affairs.

International Students by Degree

The Open Doors Report includes counts of all international students registered for the Fall 2019 semester. There are 46 international students enrolled in the Fredric G. Levin College of Law. Additionally there are 13 students participating in the Optional Practical Training (OPT)¹.

International Students by College and Degree

The greatest number of international students (38%) are enrolled in the Herbert Wertheim College of Engineering. Of all international students pursuing a bachelor degree, the majority are in the College of Liberal Arts and Science, Engineering and in Business. For graduate programs, the majority of international students are in the College of Engineering.

The college has a relatively smaller percentage of international students. Approximately one percent of all international students are working toward a degree in the college (Table 6-1).

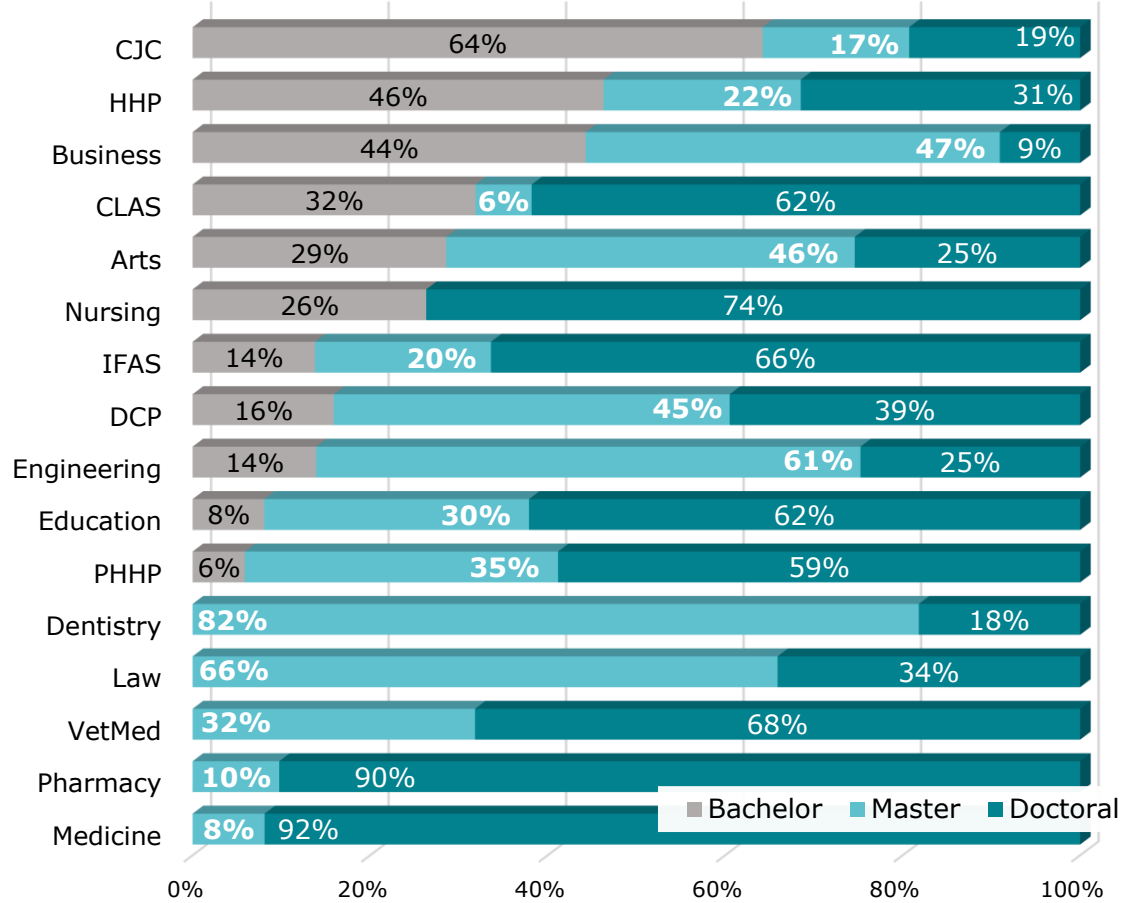

¹ Optional Practical Training provides international students an opportunity to seek "temporary employment for practical training directly related to the student's major area of study." The student can use it during or after program completion. Pre-completion OPT is always part-time and can be used at any time during the degree program. Post-completion OPT is full-time and is granted only after graduation or completion of the degree program.

Trends across all colleges show that the majority of international students are enrolled in graduate programs. With the exception of the College of Journalism and Communications, the ratio of international graduate students to international undergraduates is consistently higher. Within graduate programs, the Colleges of the Arts, Business, Dentistry, Design, Construction and Planning, and Law have greater enrollment for their master degrees than for doctorates. For other units, the proportion of international students in doctoral programs outweigh those in master level programs (Figure 6-2).

7. Study Abroad Programs

in numero

Fredric G. Levin College of Law

- Six students studied abroad; less than one percent of all study abroad students at UF
- All study abroad students participated in a traditional study abroad experience.
- Five students participated in the fall semester and one in the spring.
- Students travelled to programs in four countries in Europe.

Study Abroad Services (SAS) faced many challenges over the course of the 2019-2020 Academic Year. Beginning with protests last fall in Hong Kong forcing exchange partner institutions to shut down and requiring UFIC to evacuate eight students, we have experienced one challenge after another.

In the spring, we found ourselves in uncharted territory, as the snowball spread of COVID forced us to change plans overnight and create policies where none previously existed. As the virus jumped from Asia to Europe, one of the most popular study abroad destinations for UF students -Italy- became a COVID epicenter. UF made the difficult decision to evacuate 43 students and faculty in the School of Architecture from Vicenza, Italy.

Unfortunately, this was only the first of many difficult decisions. Understandably, this was incredibly disappointing, but as the semester progressed, and the U.S. Department of State issued an unprecedented worldwide Level 4 Travel Advisory, study abroad at UF came to a halt.

In total, 279 study abroad students began a study abroad experience and were affected by the pandemic in the spring. With a few exceptions, nearly all of those students returned to the U.S. to complete their semester remotely. For those who elected to remain abroad of their own accord, their coursework also transitioned to online platforms. With their return, students faced new challenges with remote learning, especially those that were participating in overseas internships.

Throughout all these challenges, the International center continues to be committed to providing a study abroad experience for our students in the future. We believe that studying, interning, or conducting research abroad is a high impact value added to a college education. Study abroad experiences can expand a student's worldview, build confidence, and contribute to a greater awareness of cultures and perspectives. These competencies are vital for preparing our students for a rapidly changing global workforce. We will continue to invest in study abroad programs as we gear up for the Summer and Fall 2021 terms.

Study Abroad by College

This year, substantially fewer students participated in a study abroad; however, with few exceptions, almost all colleges had some students enrolled. In the 2018/19 academic year a total 2,637 students travelled abroad for a University of Florida sanctioned study abroad experience. In comparison, in 2019/20, 803 were able to participate in a study abroad program. For the College of Law, 15 students participated in 2018/19 and only 6 during this academic year. This is a shift from last year when 1.5% of law students travelled abroad compared to this year's 0.7%².

The greatest number of students, almost half of all study abroad are in the Warrington College of Business. Of all students enrolled in Warrington College of Business, five and one half percent participated in study abroad this year. This represents the highest percentage of all colleges. The Colleges Liberal Arts and Sciences, Engineering, and of Design, Construction and Planning had relatively large number of students enrolled in study abroad (Table 7-1).

Study Abroad Student Profile

- Six students participated in a study abroad program from the Fredric G. Levin College of Law.
- In the past, the majority of UF students who participate in study abroad enroll in a summer program. For the college the majority studied abroad during the fall semester and a few during the summer in 2018/19. This year, the International Center cancelled summer programming and all travel was limited

² The percentage of students is calculated by dividing the number who participated in study abroad during the 2019/2020 academic year by the total number of students registered at UF in Fall 2019. This includes all undergraduate and graduate students both on campus and online.

- In addition to a traditional study abroad experience of classroom and accompanying travel and tours, there are programs that include the opportunity to participate in research, internships, and other unique projects while abroad which qualify for academic credit. All six College of Law students participated in a traditional study abroad program (Table 7-3).

8. Travel Registry

University of Florida faculty, staff, and researchers travel internationally as part of their official UF duties. For example, they may travel to attend conferences, collect field data, engage in outreach activities, collaborate with partners, participate in meetings, recruit students, etc. As with all aspects of international engagement, the university restricted travel by March 20, 2020³. At that time, UF restricted all non-essential university travel following Centers for Disease Control guidelines. In limited cases, university leadership approved essential travel, and the numbers beginning March 2020 reflect the decrease in travel activity (Figure 9-1).

in numero
Fredric G. Levin College of Law

- Faculty, students, and staff made 26 trips.
- Faculty, staff, and students travelled to 19 countries.
- 43% of all trips are to participate in international conferences and 23% to support research.
- Over 2/3rds of all trips are by faculty and one quarter by staff.

The majority of the college travel is for attending and participation at international conferences and almost one quarter is travel to support research initiatives. Three trips were focused on recruiting and one trip to provide technical assistance and outreach.

The travel registry tracks all University of Florida related travel and would include trips by faculty, staff, alumni, affiliates working on UF programs, and students traveling for reasons other than for study abroad (which is documented in the Study Abroad section of the report). Of the 26 international trips on behalf of the college, 18 were by faculty, seven by staff and one by a student.

International Travel by College

Half of all travel is from three units – the Institute for Food and Agricultural Sciences, the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and the Herbert Wertheim College of Engineering. Law faculty and staff account for only one percent of all UF trips. Type One Centers and other research-based units might be under represented if faculty listed their travel with their home academic unit. For example, the four trips listed by the Center for Latin American Studies reports only four trips; most likely, because the faculty working with the Center are administratively appointed to a specific college (Table 9-1).

³ UF had imposed restrictions on specific destinations earlier than March 2020.
